Largo, FL- March 3, 2009- Data Age Business Systems (Data Age), a leading provider of Financial Transaction Software Solutions, announced today the filling of two key positions as the company increases its presence across the United States.

Over the span of two decades, Data Age has developed robust Point-of-Sale and Inventory Management software solutions for small businesses. Although Data Age has operated successfully in the Tampa Bay area, last year the company started executing its plan for expansion. Now, Data Age has five regions across the U.S., with two new regions being established. Leading the expansion efforts for the two new regions are Steve Moore and Frank Graziano.

Moore will oversee Data Age's growth throughout Arkansas, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. "Steve Moore is one of those few individuals whose talents span across entrepreneurship, technology, business development, marketing and law," Said Data Age's Vice President of Sales and Marketing, Victor Guzman. "His knowledge set along with his drive and determination is the embodiment of motivation".

Moore previously held positions with Ideal Software Systems, AAA Computer services and American Resource Inc. "I am looking forward to growing Data Age's presence in the area and providing quality software solution and bringing efficiencies to small businesses," Moore said.

Graziano will oversee Data Age's growth throughout Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah, and Colorado. "Frank Graziano is a veteran distribution strategist who will bring years of successful know-how to Data Age" Guzman said.
